4th Sunday of Easter

7th May 2017

Fr. Robert writes.....

GOOD SHEPHERD SUNDAY-VOCATIONS

Next Sunday-4th Sunday of Easter 'Good Shepherd' Sunday is a special day when we are asked to pray for vocations. James Eivers was ordained a Carmelite priest in Terenure College on Saturday April 29th last. Evin O'Brien will be ordained for the diocese of Cork on Sat June 10th in the Holy Cross Church, Mahon. Let us keep them both in our prayers as we wish them well. These are some of the things Archbishop Diarmuid Martin said in his homily in Dublin at the ordination:

'Priesthood is a ministry of witness to Jesus Christ. Jesus allows us to be his ministers despite our poverty and our sinfulness. Indeed, it is recognition of our weakness that allows us to understand better and to witness more authentically to the mercy that Jesus brings to every sinner. When we become self-centred or use ministry for our own self-aggrandisement, we can quickly fall into that arrogance that drives sinners away from Jesus and damages the very nature of the Church.

Our first reading, James, indicates what we as Christians – priests, religious and people – are anointed to do and to be; we are anointed to reach out to the poor, the broken, the bereaved, the despondent and hopeless and those imprisoned by guilt and the pressures that weigh them down. Your ministry will be to introduce these men and women of our time to Jesus their friend through sharing your friendship with Jesus with them and opening new horizons of hope and meaning.

James, you become a priest at a new time in the history of the Irish Church. My generation may seem to be handing your generation a weaker and more fragile Church, fewer in numbers, weakened by scandal, less credible due to our lifestyle.

We look to your generation now to call the Church to renewal and we pray that your ministry will be marked – as I said at the beginning of this homily – by “closer configuration to Jesus Christ and a style of life and spirituality appropriate to that calling”.
